Teaching Experience

I have extensive teaching experience in research methods, comparative politics and BA/MA thesis supervision. The level of my courses covers the full range between first-year BA to Research Master's level. I developed and coordinated a large share of these courses myself. In two courses (Applied quantitative research) I also had to manage the teaching activities of colleagues. Several of my courses were aimed at Dutch and international students, meaning that I also have experience in front of international classrooms. Moreover, I developed my research methods courses for students from different academic disciplines including political science, public administration, organizational science and international business administration. Finally, I have obtained my basic teaching qualification (BKO) and my courses are well evaluated. Below I depict my evaluation grades for the past five years.

- Autumn 2020 Lecturer, BA course (4 tutorial groups), People in Business and Society, Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam.
Evaluation: 4.1 (5=best, 1=worst)
